Woman Innocent Victim Of Shooting Scrape Saturday

Harison Williams, a young colored lad of this city, was taken to Greensburg this morning and will await the next term of court on a charge of felonious shooting. The shooting took place Saturday afternoon at the home of his mother on Third street, following a fight between Williams and another colored man by the name of Gordon.

According to the testimony at the hearing before Justice of the Peace Watkins Saturday evening, Gordon has been staying about the home for a number of years, and young Williams and his mother have been compelled to support him. The two men got into an altercation over the affairs Saturday, and securing a revolver, Williams started after him. Gordon ran out the door, followed by Williams, and just as he stepped around the building, Mrs. Victorena Rieu, a neighbor, appeared in the doorway of her home with a pan of beans. She was directly in front of Williams, who fired at Gordon as he rounded the corner of the building, and the shot entered Mrs. Rieu's hand and located in her arm.

The police were called and arrived just in time to save Williams from the fury of the residents of that section of the town. He made no attempt to escape, and gave himself up to the officers. Percy Randolph who happened to be at the house at the time, fearing the crowd would attempt to do him harm, made a dash for the street and was not caught until he had reached the river below the brewery. He was held as a witness.

Work Suspended

—The local plant of the American Sheet and Tin Plate company ceased operations in all departments this morning for one hour in respect for George Gibson McMurty of Vandergrift, who died Friday at Atlantic City. Mr. McMurty was 77 years of age and chairman of the company and a director in many of the large corporations of the country.

Returned From Trip With Bride

Dr. Harry F. Craig, the local druggist and optician, returned this morning from a month's trip through the west and surprised his many friends by announcing his wedding on August 4 to Miss Aurora Grunden of Mineapolis, Minn. Dr. and Mrs. Craig arived here on the 11 o'clock train and went at once to the Fifth Avenue hotel, where they will make their home for the present.

Dr. Craig left here July 8 to attend the convention of the Rexall dealers and stockholders at San Francisco and did not leave even his most intimidate friends know of the approaching nuptials. He boarded the special train of twelve coaches for the coast at Pittsburgh and traveled through 18 states and a part of Canada, traveling over 9,000 miles on the trip. Both big fairs were taken in by the excursionists and in Canada they were impressed by the activities of men, women and children preparing for the war. Thousands of men are being mustered into service and getting ready to join their comrades in the great European conflict.

At Minneapolis, Dr. Craig left the party, confiding in a few of his friends of his intentions. The wedding took place at 4 o'clock last Wednesday afternoon, with only a few of the friends of the bride's family present and the ring ceremony was used.

The bride is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. N. O. Grunden of Minneapolis. Rev. Grunden is pastor of the Lutheran church of that city and is one of the most learned men in that section of the state. The bride is an accomplished and talented young woman with a pleasing personality and was a great social favorite in her set.

Dr. Craig enjoys the friendship of practically the entire community and is rated as one of the town's most successful business men. He came here seven years ago from Charleroi and purchased the drug store in which he is now located. His determination to make his establishment the leading drug store in the city has met with success and he now finds his present quarters too small. Realizing the future possibilities in this growing community, he has let a contract and ground has been broken for a new four story building to be erected directly across the street from his present establishment. When this is completed, he will have one of the finest buildings in the city and a drug store that will rank with the leading establishments in western Pennsylvania. The Independent joins the hudreds of others in extending heartiest congratulations to the bride and groom.

Large Crowd Enjoyed Good Band Concert

One of the most enjoyabe band concerts of the season was given by the Moose band at the Sixth street park band stand last evening. Fully a thousand people gathered on the hillside about the band stand and enjoyed the program which lasted for over two hours. The band, although only recently organized, promises to become one of the leading musical organizations of the town, and time and again they were forced to respond to the enchores of the crowd.

Thirteen numbers were included in the program of popular and classical music. A feature of the evening was the solo numbers by Louis Sauers. He made a decided hit with "Chinatown My Chinatown" and When You Wore a Tulip and I Wore a Big Red Rose."

Dominico Greco, the leader of the organization, is to be congratulated upon the manner in which he conducted his men and it is the wish of the public that the band will give another concert in the near future.

Campmeeting Opens

The Union Holiness association began a two weeks' series of evangelistic meetings Friday at the Bentleyville camp grounds, under the most favorable circumstances. Much interest was shown in the meetings, which the management believe is significant of enthusiasm for the balance of the meetings which will continue until August 15. A large crowd was present for the Sunday services when special addresses were delivered and good music was a feature. Prof. R. A. Jennings, a well known song leader of Pittsburgh, has been engaged for the meetings, and the music as in past years, will be one of the prominent features of the meetings.

Yesterday hundreds of automobiles from this vicinity took a large number of people to the meetings, while the new street railway used extra cars to carry the crowds to the grounds. Next Sunday will be the banner day and it is expected that all attendance records will be broken.

Delegates Leave For Convention

The local firemen are in a quandry as to where they will secure funds to send delegates to the convention at Sharpsburg this week. At a recent meeting of the firemen, Matthew Koch and Lee Bailey were elected as delegates, but at a meeting called for yesterday afternoon, at which time the delegates were to receive money to cover their expenses on the trip, only a handful of firemen responded and an investigation of the treasury disclosed the fact that it was empty and no provisions had been made for the delegates.

The firemen are anxious to attend a convention in a body, but as this is out of the question owing to the lack of funds, they at least wish to have delegates present for the business meetings, and the present state of affairs is to be deplored.

Council has not appropriated any money for some time towards this cause, and their refusal to allow them to hold a carnival within the borough limits has kept the treasury at a low ebb. Many of the members of the department have become disgusted with the affairs and threaten to resign.

Fight Is Now On

Publication of the constiutional amendments to be voted for this year which has been started has stirred both the suffragists and the opponents to activity, and while the suffragists are rejoicing over the fact that the suffrage amendment is the first on the list and claiming that it means 30,000 votes, the antis are equally confident that the position will mean trouble.

The suffragists are having a fine time with the Liberty Bell in the western end of the state and proclaim a steadily increasing sentiment even among people whom they did not expect to interest so early. The antis have announced their plan of invasion of the two big cities, a corps of speakers to be sent into Pittsburgh late this month and a similar demonstration in Philadelphia next month with visits to the interior from time to time.

Yeggs And Peddlers Will Find No Harvest Here

For almost two hours this morning Acting Burgess Dale was kept busy disposing of the cases left over from the Saturday night rush. Saturday being pay day at two of the local mills, the town was flooded early in the morning with "yeggs" and peddlers of all discriptions, but Chief Wheatley had given orders in the morning to pick them up, and early in the evening the lockup was full and court was held by the acting burgess. All the "yeggs" and peddlers were given a fair warning and told to leave the city Their next visit will mean a sentence to the streets or 30 days to jail. One of their number Jim Collins, was not caught in the net during the morning, and as a result he spent Sunday as the guest of the borough, and will pay for his board by working the next two days on the streets.

Samuel Lundborg of Pittsburgh, has been peddling jewelry about town and he was arrested Saturday. His defense was very light and he had a fine of $5.00 and costs, amounting in all to $7.00 to pay. Sidney Evans got drunk, for the first time, he said, and when two men attempted to help him home, he landed on them with a stiff uppercut. He was fined $4.00 but having only $3.00 on his person, was taken back to jail.

Jim Mozzo, an Italian barber, is being held as a suspicious character. He was seen in the grandstand at the Page park with a little girl and when the police were called, he ran. Emil Rivikalo, after working two days on the streets last week for being drunk, went right back to his old haunts, and was again picked up by the police. He will have two days more of manual labor for the borough. John Fahy, a boarding boss of Schoonmaker avenue, had a fight with Charles Cadvris, and both men had a fine of $7.00 to pay. John Bauvin got a "lettle" drunk and had a "lettle" fine of $3.00 to pay.

Merchants Complain

Though Donora is enjoying one of the greatest booms in its history, because of the industrial activity there of the United States Steel corporation, business men are complaining. The reason for the complaint is the lack of what the merchants term their proper share of the business.

At the last pay, it is stated, $130,000 was paid out in one lump, yet business is reported to have been little better than that of any ordinary sort of day during the past year. Where the business is gone, is something that the merchants are worrying over.

Approximately 1,400 men have recently come into Donora and have been seeking residences. Donora has been unable to provide accommodations, since the influx came entirely unexpected and suddenly.

Women in the News

Philadelphia—Brides from sunny Italy are now in the hands of the Italian government. By a suspension of passports to girls coming to America to wed their sweethearts who have wrought out homes for them, the Italian government wields a new club over the reservists. The dock weddings have been a feature of immigration statistics here. Many of the Italians are miners, and some of them are reservists who find it more congenial in America and easier to make homes for their brides.

New York—Miss Anne Morgan has left her comfortable home at Bar Harbor, and is on her way to France, to find in what way she can best direct her energies toward relieving suffering in Europe. Miss Morgan is the treasurer of the Vacation War Relief Committee, which is working in co-operation with the London French Wounded Emergency Fund. The daughter of the late American financier is probably better known in Europe and America than any other American woman. In addition to personal magnetism, force of character and administrative ability, she is blessed with good looks and great wealth.

Boston—Rev. Gertrude von Petzold, pastor of a church in Birmingham, England, who has been expelled from England by order of the British Home Office, is well known in Boston. When she visited here in 1907, she was the only woman minister in England. She is now 39, and has lived in England for some 18 years. She visited America as delegate to the Congress of Religious Liberals. During her stay, she preached here. She was educated in England and Scotland. Although the details of her expulsion are not disclosed, it is known here that she came of a long line of German military men, and her father was a captain in the Prussian army.

Glacier Park, Mont.—The American novelist, Mary Roberts Rinehart, has been adopted into the Blackfeet Indian tribe. Her new name is Running Eagle. The cermonies of adoption were held in Cutbank Canyon, and the authoress was presented with Indian curios and relics. War dances occupied a prominent place in the mystic rites of initiation.

New Orleans, La.—Miss "Johnny" McDonald of Mississippi, is the undisputed champion of Tulane University in the art of boxing. Regulation ring battles, although under the college ban, are pulled off in private. And when the fall session begins, a new champion will be picked. Miss Hilda Simons of Louisiana, who holds secondary honors, will be a strong contender for the championship next year. Several members have shown marks of encounters in the ring battles, but the athletic girls have managed to keep secret the ring where the gloves fly.

Denver—Mrs. Mary T. Bigelow, of Denver, not satisfied with being an artist, lawyer, mathematician and mother of a family, has just added another profession to her list, that of a doctor. She was graduated this summer at the University of Colorado, with the highest honors in medicine.

Got Inspiration from Balloon Ascension

St. Paul, Minn., Aug 7—Count Ferdinand von Zeppelin, the air ship inventor, has admitted that he was the "Count Steiner" who experimented with baloon flight in 1863 in St. Paul, and it was while he was sailing aloft on that initial trip that the possibilities of aerial navigation and aerial warfare fixed themselves in his mind. He returned to Germany and spent his life and fortune trying to accomplish the endless task of overcoming the forces of gravitation, winds and weather.

Zeppelin met with his difficulties here before he was able to ascend into the clouds. But on Aug. 9, with no less a distinguished guest than the daughter of the Governor, he made his successful flight. Alexander Ramsey, the war governor of Minnesota, was to have journeyed with him, but was too busy that day So that little Marion Ramsey was his substitute. Miss Ramsey is now Mrs. C. E. Furness of St. Paul and she recalls the balloon ascension.

"I can remember making the flight," she says, "but did not realize until now that the pilot was so distinguished a person as Count von Zeppelin. I enjoyed the trip and was glad that mother was not there to stop me from going up."

St. Paul at the time was a frontier town, and gas was a scarce article. The baloon he used was owned by an army officer who was experimenting with it as a captive baloon. Zeppelin's determination finally secured enough gas to give the buoyancy for a flight. The thrill of adventure was then in his veins, for the Count was then only 25 years old. While sailing over the forests and lakes he conceived the idea of the dirigible, the application of power to direct the movements of gas air ships. Instead of drifting with the breezes, he believed it possible to follow a course if the proper power machine could be produced. Later on, when the gas engine was perfected, the Count was able to secure the needed power, and in his half century of experimenting, since his flight here, has demonstrated his theories to be entirely practical.

The Count, though 77 years old, is hoping to see the day when one of his pet Zeppelins will cross the Atlantic, and nothing would please him more than to be at the helm and pilot the craft to St. Paul, where he obtained his inspiration.

IMMIGRATION CONGRESS OPENS TODAY

San Francisco, Aug. 9—The International Congress, called by the American Sociological society and the Federal Council of Churches, will be opened today at the Exposition. Many of the leading sociologists of the country are here for the meetings, which are expected to develop long discussions on the new problems in immigration which must be met when the European war is over.

BIG ATTENDANCE AT LOS ANGELES TYPE CONVENTION

Los Angeles, Calif., Aug. 9—The annual convention of the International Typographical Union opened here today with a big attendance from all branches in the United States and Canada. The session will continue for the balance of the week. Public ownership of the telegraph and telephone wires, and their operation under the post office department, will be endorsed by the committee appointed last year.

Bridgeton, N.J.—"I want to thank you a thousand times for the wonderful good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I suffered very much from a female trouble. I had bearing down pains, was irregular and at times could hardly walk across the room. I was unable to do my housework or attend to my baby I was so weak. Lydia E. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ills we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., seem to prove this fact.

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has restored the health of thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, etc.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

WHY SHOULD A WOMAN SUFFRAGE BE LOGICAL AND JUST IN COLORADO, WYOMING, NEVADA, CALIFORNIA, OREGON, WASHINGTON
OH, THAT'S WAY OUT WEST
WELL, HUBBY, HOW ABOUT ILLINOIS AND KANSAS? THEY'RE NOT WAY OUT WEST
OH! IT'S ALL RIGHT THERE
THEN WHY ISN'T IT ALL RIGHT HERE?
YOU WIN, WIFEY, I'LL VOTE FOR EQUAL SUFFRAGE HERE IN NOVEMBER

AND IT'S ALL RIGHT HERE

A MORAL IN PER-CENTS

Being a Mathematical Calculation Based on Anti-Suffrage Figures.

FIGURES SOMETIMES LIE

Unless One Knows How to Draw the Proper Conclusions from Them.

A statement sent out by the organization interested in not getting votes for women, recites, among instances of beneficent legislation secured by ballot, that 23 States have enacted workmen's compensation laws since 1911, "Only seven of them being suffrage States,"—which is to say 63% or nearly 3/5 of the full suffrage States

Sixteen man-suffrage States passed such a law, according to the same authority, which is to say just 43% of the manhood suffrage States.

The same statement makes the point that the first Mothers' Pension Law was passed in 1911, and that since then six women-suffrage States have adopted such a law, whereas 12 male suffrage States have done so. Which is to say that 54% of the woman-suffrage States are to be credited with this law, as against 32½% of the male suffrage States. (As a matter of fact, 100% of the woman-suffrage States have passed widowed mothers' pension bills, but one is concerned here with anti figures, not facts.)

"Eleven male-suffrage States have equal guardianship laws, which are of particular advantage to women. Only seven suffrage States have been sufficiently interested to adopt such a law," continues the statement. Which is to say that 29% of the male-suffrage States have passed equal guardianship laws while "only" 63% of the woman suffrage States have adopted this law, "of particular advantage to women."

"Eight suffrage States," continues this same effort to show how much more quickly and surely women get what they want when they haven't the ballot to get it with, "eight suffrage States make the age of consent 18, but ten male-suffrage States have established this law." Which is to say that 73% of the woman-suffrage States have the law as against 27½ of the male-suffrage States.

HE CAME FROM MISSOURI, HE WAS "SHOWN"—AND STILL HE DIDN'T BELIEVE

There are some people who are still wondering whether woman suffrage will disrupt the home, upset society and work havoc in general, in spite of the fact that women now vote in twelve States in none of which have these disasters occurred. This attitude on the part of opponents of suffrage recalls a story of pioneer days when a settler near the present town of Albany, Missouri, bought for his wife the first cook stove ever seen in that part of the country.

The stove was an object of great curiosity, and the woman's next door neighbor—a man who lived ten miles away—came to see how it would work.

Without comment he watched the dinner being cooked; ate the meal with judgment still held in reserve and then remarked, with a shake of the head:

"Well, Sarah, it cooks all right, and the victuals taste good, but I don't believe it will ever be a success."

There are 20,891,319 women of voting age in the United States. More than one-fourth of them are wage earners outside of the home.

GOV. CARLSON URGES VOTES FOR PENN MOTHERS

Colorado Executive, Speaking at Kane, Says Women of His State Have Made Good as Voters

DO NOT NEGLECT THE HOME

Nor Have They Lost Their Womanly Charm By Voting Against Its Enemies.

Governor George A. Carlson, of Colorado, a State where women have voted for the past twenty-two years, made a strong appeal to the men of Pennsylvania to vote for woman suffrage this November in an address he delivered on July 13 last, at the Swedish Lutheran Church at Kane, Pa. He said:

"Don't let people tell you that the mothers of your children will prove incapable, or become coarse, cold or neglectful in the home if given the ballot; those who for nearly a quarter of a century have actually observed the enfranchised woman at work know that she can sense the enemy of the home more quickly and will fight him with more telling effect than the husband, and while preserving all her natural feminine charm and sweetness, she will become even more devoted to the man who has allowed her ampler means and fuller power for the protection of their common fireside.

"The State in safeguarding and preserving the health and morals of the young is but doing a mother's work

"We need the blending of the mother heart and the masculine judgment and will to sustain and guard our homes."

BARBER AND FARMER DO GREAT TEAM WORK FOR WOMAN SUFFRAGE

City men are not the only ones who are interested in suffrage. Miss Liliane Howard, one of the State suffrage organizers, has been touring the farming districts recently and this is what she says of her experiences:

"The interest among the farmers is very encouraging. We have been holding five or six meetings a day. The men left their work in the fields and the women their homes and came to the meetings no matter how distant they were. Sometimes they had to walk and carry the babies but that did not stop them.

"At Calvin, in Huntingdon County, the men were out repairing a telephone line and could not come to the meeting. They begged us to come to where they were working. When we got there every one of them stood and listened to every word of our speeches even though it rained part of the time.

"At another town a man was having his hair cut when we arrived. When he heard the speeches outside of the barber shop he made the barber move his chair out on the street and both of them listened attentively to the speeches while the haircut was being finished."

Jack and Jill have equal will
And equal strength and mind.
But when it comes to equal rights,
Poor Jill trails far behind.

TARIFF BARRIER TO BE KEYNOTE

Republicans Will Fight For Home Labor Protection.

WAR CAUSES INDUSTRIAL BOOM

Democrats Would Like to Take Credit for Prospect of Better Times, But They Know That When Peace Comes Foreign Goods Will Again Come Into the United States.

Philadelphia, Aug. 3. — Leading Democrats throughout Pennsylvania cannot see why the people do not thank the Wilson administration for the prospect of better times due to the war. They feel that it would be only fair to the Democratic party for Pennsylvania citizens to delude themselves into believing that the present government at Washington had something to do with the signs of coming briskness in the industrial world.

The strange feature of this idea is that many of these Democrats, when questioned, are honest enough to admit that the war is the cause of any increase in the work of industries. Inasmuch as they disclaim any credit or discredit for starting the war their position is, therefore, both peculiar and ridiculous.

Sums Up Situation.

Here is how the Philadelphia Bulletin sums up the situation regarding the necessity of revising the tariff to take care of American industries in years to come:

"An intimate and familiar example for Philadelphia is in the hosiery and knit goods industry, the local plants of which are now enjoying a rush of orders to meet the demands of local trade. Every manufacturer and every buyer in the trade knows, however, that this condition is abnormal and that it exists only because the great factories of northern France and Belgium, which, under ordinary conditions, ship their products into the United States at prices with which the American manufacturer, paying the American standard of wages and subject to American labor laws, cannot compete, are out of commission on account of the war. And it is an equally simple matter of appreciation that when the war is over and the work of rehabilitation begins—which will not be difficult because the actual industrial destruction has been comparatively small—these goods will again pour into the United States and take away the demand for home labor.

Common Sense Judgment.

When Democrats attempt to use the argument that better times—if they come—are due to the excellent working of the present tariff, by itself considered, they run up against the common sense judgment of the people. For that reason some of them admit that the war is responsible, though they would like the voters at large to give the party credit.

Every person who is capable of observing the course of events must know that present conditions are temporary—that they are dependent upon the stagnation of foreign industry. If it were not so, why were there indications of a turn for the better soon after the war broke out, and why did the nation suffer so serious a period of depression soon after the new tariff was enacted, when before it enjoyed full and plenty, comparable only with the best times we have had in a generation? There is a reason, and the reason is not difficult to find out.

High Cost of Living.

Democrats are making the remarkable statement that the high cost of living "is caused by the war in Europe and by abnormal conditions caused by it." Yet in 1912, two years before the war started, the Democracy claimed that the high cost of living was due to the "robber Tariff." When the Republicans were in power they were to blame for the "high cost of living;" now that the Democrats are in, the "war" is to blame. That is to say, the Democracy is never to blame for anything objectionable, no matter when or how it happens. Anyway, it does not make so much difference what caused the high cost of living; the thing of importance is, what will reduce it? The Democrats said if the people would put them in they would do the trick. They are in and they have not done it.

The Department of Labor under the direction of the Wilson administration has prepared a statement on the cost of living which shows that meats have gone up 19 per cent. since the last presidential election. Yet meats are on the free list. The price of milk has increased 3 per cent. and eggs slightly more than 3 per cent. Milk and eggs are on the free list.

The Payne-Aldrich duty on eggs was 5 cents a dozen. It was removed in order to reduce the cost of living. When the wage earner studies this report he will realize the falsity of statements made by Free-Trade speakers during the campaign which resulted in the election of Woodrow Wilson. The oft repeated cry that high prices were the result of the tariff is refuted by the facts contained in the report. The remarkable rise in prices has taken place in spite of the Free-Trade Underwood law which placed foodstuffs on the free list to the great injury of the farmer and, as experience shows, without benefit to the consumer.

TRAPSHOOTING OLD SPORT

English Live Bird Shooting Prototype of American Game.

By Albert P. Taylor.

As far back as 1793 the Sporting Magazine, of London, England, mentioned pigeon-shooting, which was the forerunner of modern trapshooting, and it was in England that trapshooting first became a recognized sport. However, considerable difference exists between the sport in its infant stages and the present.

Englishmen wanted to get in form for the contest now on with the team across the channel, so they started trapshooting. At that time live birds were used—the blue rock pigeon—and not our river silt and tar "pigeon." Likewise the trap of those days was quite different from the ones Henderson, Richardson, Lyon, Newcomb and others are in the habit of facing. It consisted of a box 8x12 inches, sunk level with the ground, having a sliding lid, which was pulled off the box by means of a string running back to the trapper. Of course the perriwigged gentlemen of that early day with their flintlocks couldn't do much with our "humdingers," but nevertheless we have them to thank for actually starting this great sport.

The first attempt at trapshooting in this country took place in Cincinnati in 1831. Wild pigeons served as targets until the 90 and 95 per cent class became so large they were forced to substitute quail. You "gun bugs" of today, think of shooting at quail with a muzzle-loader!

It is impossible to determine just when inanimate targets came into use. The earliest account on record is that of shooting at glass balls down at Boston, in 1866. The trap used was an imported affair from England and far from satisfactory, so an American got busy and made a trap that would send these glass orbs through space in a more Yankeelike manner. Thereafter, for twenty years, the glass industry was overwhelmed and "bare foot Johnny" steered clear of trapshooting grounds.

Improvements of balls and traps were produced in considerable numbers until 1880, when it came due for Cincinnati to again figure in the formative stages of "The Sport Alluring." This time to serve as the home of George Ligowsky, who invented real clay pigeons and a trap to spring them, of which our modern "saucers" and traps are the lineal descendants. The subsequent history of this fascinating sport, with its thousands of devotees all over our own land and in foreign countries (though in the latter, alas, they are reverting to primitive targets), is being recorded in the columns of the sporting pages of the press.

WHY SHOOTING APPEALS

The Real Man Is a Boy at Heart

To most questions there is a general or popular answer that is good enough for the most of us. Assuming this to be true, no valuable purpose would be served by going into a high brow analysis of the psychology of trapshooting with theories about a "hunting instinct," a "destructive instinct" and what not.

The general answer to the question "Why does trapshooting appeal?" is double-barreled and is based on facts rather than theories—every red-blooded American likes a gun, and he would rather play a game than watch others play it.

The first section of this answer is proved by the part the gun has played in every epoch of our national life from pioneer days to now. To digress for a moment—and while maintaining a position of strict neutrality—it is safe to say that the wholesome respect which Europe has for our ability to shoot straight, as proved on several occasions, has been a big element in our not becoming involved in the present unpleasantness.

That the gun's hold on us is greater than ever is shown by the fact that there are more than 10,000,000 shotguns in the United States, to say nothing of rifles, revolvers, pistols and automatics.

The second part of the answer is proved by the tremendous growth of outdoor sports in general and trapshooting in particular. During 1914 more than one thousand new trapshooting clubs sprung up, while the membership of clubs already in existence increased about 50 per cent. on the average.

As to the fascination of trapshooting—where is the boy who will not take a pot shot with stone, snow ball, toy gun, sling shot or spitball pipe at a moving object? And the real man—the fellow who loves the great outdoors—is very much of a boy at heart when he can slip away from business for a half day.

It is this "boy" in the man that makes irresistible the desire to blaze away at the little saucer-shaped discs, sprung from the traps at a speed that tantalizes the shooter who does not think and act like the proverbial "greased lightning."

To sum up, trapshooting includes all the elements that go to make up the ideal American sport, being a game for all ages and both sexes. It is competitive, it depends in the greater degree on skill, yet has breaks of luck, it provides both exercise and recreation, it is clean, fair and square, and while a game for gentlemen, using the term in its broad sense, it is democratic in the greatest degree.

Miss Harriet D. Hammond, of Wilmington, Del., is one of the best known and popular trapshooters of the east. Miss Hammond added to her fame by organizing the first women's trapshooting club, the Nemours

GOOD PROGRAM FOR OPENING NIGHT

The following story tells in part of "The Clemenceau Case" which will be shown as the opening program at the Star theatre. Read the story, wait and watch for the opening date.

No more powerful sermon was ever preached than "The Clemenceau Case." No more wonderful photoplay than "The Clemenceau Case" as picturized for William Fox, president of the Fox Film Corporation, and starring Theda Bara, "The Vampire Woman," has ever been beheld upon the screen. These statements are made without reservation. Like a mighty river, the story of the drama rushes strong and swift to its cataclysmic climax. Passions flare and wills clash throughout the production in a way that grips the spectator, holding him breathles sin his chair till the last great scene is reached and the well nigh overwhelming story of "The Clemenceau Case" is brought to its tremendous end. Briefly told the story of this world-famous drama is as follows:

Pierre Clemenceau is brought up like a litle weed in a shabby boarding house in the slums of Paris. His mother is a struggling seamstress. His father comes home one night in a drunken rage. He abuses the woman with whom he has formed an irregular alliance. Then he flings her out of the house forever.

Years pass by. Pierre has attained the dignity of his first trousers. He is a pupil at a cheap boarding school. His greatest chum at school is a lad called Andre. Andre invites Pierre to his home. Andre's mother knows the secret of Pierre's parentage. She forbids Andre to associate with him. Boylike, Andre tells the other pupils of the school the story. Pierre finds himself shunned. He seeks out Andre and gives him a good thrashing. From the little group of school boys who have watched the battle with hugh delight, one boy stands out as the crowd dissolves. He is Ritz Constantin.

"I know nothing about what the other chaps are saying," he says, "but I like you. I'll be your chum."

Ritz invites Piere to visit at Ritz' home in Paris. Ritz's father, the elder Constantin is a celebrated sculptor. In Constantin's studio, Pierre idly takes up a lump of modeling clay. With natural skill his hands begin forming it. Constantin enters and watches the boy. He is struck by the great natural genius of Pierre. The sculptor visits Pierre's mother. He tells her he will make Pierre a great sculptor.

Ten years elapse. The elder Constantin gives a riotous studio party. Among the guests are the Countess Dobronowska. With her she brings her stunning daughter Iza, who is a young girl of striking beauty and sinuous fascination. The fires of unbridled passion smolder in her dark eyes. Baron Sergius, whose escapades have made him known throughout Paris as a Lothario, is another guest.

The impoverished Countess sees Sergius' eyes fasten on Iza. She knows of his reputation, but she moves heaven and earth to force Iza into an "affair" with the nobleman. Iza, wearied by the revelry, seeks an alcove where there is a draped couch with Oriental hangings and flings her splendid young body on the lounge in an attitude of enticing abandon. Pierre starts, unseen by her, to sketch her. Just then the laughing, riotous crowd comes romping into the nook.

"Hush!" cries Pierre in terror for his sketch. But it is too late. Iza awake, sees the drawing.

"Am I as beautiful as that?" she asks, fixing her eyes on Pierre.

"My poor sketch does not begin to express your charm," cries Pierre fervently.

Ritz dreads what the outcome will be, for he has read Iza's true nature aright. Sergius seeks out Iza's mother and quickly sees that the woman is willing to bargain off her daughter's body.

"Bring the girl to me at Monte Carlo," says Sergius. The bargain is struck.

Iza, with whom Pierre becomes madly infatuated, consents to pose for him as "Innocence."

Sergius wins Iza, abetted by the beautiful girl's mother, by falsely swearing that he means to marry her. But bitter disillusionment comes. Iza leaves the Baron. She comes to Pierre's studio.

"Pierre, I have come to give my answer," she cries. "I will marry you."

Pierre's love is blind. They are married. Sergius realizes that his love for Iza is the first decent passion that has come into his life. He follows her to Paris. Iza meets his advances.

Ritz, loyal to Pierre, sets himself to watch Iza. He tracks her to her rendezvous with Sergius. Iza becomes aware of this. She knows that Ritz suspects her. To thwart his intentions, she writes a note to her husband.

"Watch your wife. She is false to you. Dog her footsteps and you will discove everything.— A Well-wisher."
